

WATER CANADA

Digging Deep

Effective Cost Recovery and Financial Models for Your Water Assets

Opportunities in Stormwater Management (page 8)

Boost Water Quality with Nanotubes (page 26)

Encourage Water
Engagement with Media Strategy (page 32)

FEATURES

20 Get Smart

Solving the age-old dilemma of limited budgets and aging infrastructure with smart modernization strategies for water and wastewater operators.

BY PAM MACGILLIVRAY

28 Cloudburst Mitigation

Canada could learn some lessons from Denmark about climate change adaptation.

BY MARTIN VILHELMSSEN

32 Changing the Channel

An integrated media strategy can support constructive local water engagement.

BY MICHAEL AHERNE

WASTEWATER

8 Planning for Uncertainties

Canadian municipalities should see the opportunities in stormwater management—not the threats.

BY NATHANAEL COUPERUS
AND NATALIJA FISHER

CONVEYANCE

12 Call to Action

Canadian municipalities need more appropriate solutions than big pipes.

BY TRISH JOHNSON

WATER RESOURCES

24 Uncovering a Paradise

Exploring the economic benefits of rehabilitating a watershed and cleaning up a city's waterfront.

BY MARIO CARR

8

16

20

26

32

DRINKING WATER

26 Through the Tube

Carbon nanotubes have the potential to dramatically improve water quality and better manage the world's water woes.

BY JEAN-FRANCOIS BARSOUM
AND SOPHIA TU

COLUMNS

16 Liquid Assets

As water-conserving technologies become more popular, how can utilities keep their budgets balanced?

BY JAMES CARELESS

22 The Young Professional

Eliminating water-borne bacteria with pages from the Drinkable Book could save lives.

BY ANDRÉ VOSHART

36 Rules & Regs

Do local governments need a push to support asset management?

BY Robert Haller

42 H2Opinion

Effective water financing and recovery is key to sustainable communities.

BY BERNADETTE CONANT

DEPARTMENTS

5 Editor's Note

We have a love of water in common.

BY RACHEL PHAN

6 Comment

Welcoming Water Canada's new editor:

7 Front

RAVEN-PAIGE WILKINSON writes about the long-term effect plastic microbeads may have on ecosystems.

38 People and Events

Jobs, awards, moves, and the latest event coverage.